It will be added to my Natural Soap Making page along with other helpful links and recipes; so be sure to bookmark or pin it ...

Soap Making 101: How to Make Soap {cold process}

Soap is the term for a salt of a fatty acid or for a variety of cleansing and lubricating products produced from such a substance. Household uses for soaps include washing, bathing, and other types of housekeeping, where soaps act as surfactants, emulsifying oils to enable them to be carried away by water. In industry, they are used as thickeners, components of some lubricants, and precursors ...

Marseille soap or Savon de Marseille is a traditional hard soap made from vegetable oils that has been produced around Marseille, France, for about 600 years. The first documented soapmaker was recorded there in about 1370. By 1688, Louis XIV introduced regulations in the Edict of Colbert limiting the use of the name savon de Marseille to olive oil based soaps.

SOAP (subjective cues, objective cues, assessment, and planning) is a tool that most health care providers use when dealing with patients. It involves taking the patient's verbal cues regarding his/her condition and getting their vital signs (temperature, heart rate, breathing rate, blood pressure), making an assessment based on their condition, and a plan of care.

Introduction . You can read in almost all of the "how to make transparent soap" manuals, that to master the technique, it is a big advantage to be familiar with the hot process soapmaking. Indeed, but I tell you what – I did try to make transparent soap without any hot process experience. Actually, I only made a few batches of a cold processed soap at that time.
